- a) We often hear, "Education for All." Education of people with disabilities has been a major concern of both the government and civil society in India, as educated people with disabilities can play an important role in the country's development. Education is a milestone in the empowerment of people with disabilities because it enables them to respond to the challenges, confront their traditional roles, and improve their lives. The education of people with disabilities in India has been a need of the hour, as education is a foundation stone for the empowerment of people with disabilities. Education also brings a reduction in inequalities, functions as a means of improving their status within the family, and develops the concept of participation.

What advantages does society get from having educated people with disability? What are the various steps taken by the government to support Education of People with Disabilities in the country?

- b) Writing your autobiography can seem like an overwhelming task. To break it into manageable pieces, ask yourself questions that will separate your life into ages, experiences, and important events. Then, interview yourself just as you would another person if you were writing their life story.

The following list of questions will help you generate brilliant ideas for your autobiographies whenever you need them:

- Who influenced your personal development?
- What are your best and worst childhood memories?
- What is your family's social and ethnic background?

- What are your relations with parents and other relatives?
- What are your main achievements in life?
- What are your goals for the future?
- What skills would you like to develop and why?
- What was the most memorable day in your life?
- What was the most important lesson you have ever learned in your life?
- What are the most important values in life, in your opinion?

Prepare your autobiography in about 300-500 words along with 10-20 minutes video incorporating the answers to the questions mentioned above.
